Concepts of Spring, an Elkhart, Indiana based company, has emphasized on the positive effects of Spring Vitality's Probiotics Supplement if taken regularly. The company wants to stress on the importance of consumers learning more about probiotics and how they can be beneficial to a person's health.

Eva Galvez, spokesperson for the Spring Vitality line, states, "Probiotics should be a part of your daily diet. They are great for your digestive health & immune system, and is something that you should ensure you are getting enough of every day."

Probiotics are actually live bacteria and yeast that can help to ward off a number of health issues. These are considered to be good bacteria that help to keep the digestive system healthy. Probiotics in the gastrointestinal tract also helps to reinforce the barrier function of the intestinal lining, reducing the chance of bacteria in the intestines entering into the blood stream. This function may decrease infections and immune related reactions, thus supporting the health of the immune system. While they are found naturally in the body, they can also be found in certain foods, and in supplements.

"We've been studying the effects of probiotics," states Eva Galvez. "People are now paying attention to their benefits and the risks associated with probiotic deficiencies."

Spring Vitality under Concepts of Spring has designed their product to naturally provide probiotics, which are known to help with certain digestive disorders such as IBS or irritable bowel syndrome. In addition, the Spring Vitality Probiotic Supplement has been developed in such a way that it does not have a smell or a bad taste, which is loved by its consumers.

It has also been noted that their product does not cause upset stomach and that it boosts overall health in just a short time, instead of weeks. According to Eva Galvez, some consumers have seen and felt results in just a couple of days.

Concepts of Spring launched their first line in August 2014. The first product line, safety and security products, were followed recently by a line of supplements and other healthy living products. The company offers their products on the Amazon marketplace.
