The basic services that they provide are tree trimming and pruning and tree cutting and removal. Trimming and pruning are an essential part of tree maintenance. First of all, pruning and trimming trees will ensure that the aesthetic contribution of trees to the home is maximized. It should be noted that there is a difference between pruning and trimming. When it is the loose, dead, or infected stems or branches that are removed, the process is known as pruning. On the other hand, trimming has to do with cutting back overgrowth.

One important benefit of trimming and pruning is better pest and insect control. When trees and shrubs are trimmed or pruned, insects and pests can be better managed. Such insects and pests can harm the tree and can result in the spread of diseases. Furthermore, if the trees and shrubs are too close to the home, the insects and pests may even get inside the property.

Another benefit of pruning and trimming trees and shrubs is protection of the home or property. Diseased and dead branches can be a major hazard for the property. They can catch fire or strong winds can cause them to hit a part of the home, possibly causing damage to the property and/or injury to family members. If the trees are near power lines, they can also cause electric power interruptions if strong winds cause their branches to hit the power lines.

And finally, trimming and pruning can help in ensuring the proper growth of trees and shrubs. Regular pruning and trimming can enhance the strength and health of the plant. Young plants will benefit the most from pruning. As they mature, they?ll need less corrective pruning and more likely have a healthier plant formation.

Tree cutting or tree removal is necessary during certain situations. For instance, tree removal is required when a tree is dead or dying due to disease or pests. Or a tree may have been damaged or felled by a storm. Or a tree is too close to power lines. Or more space is needed for constructing an additional building.

Other kinds of tree care services are also available. These include stump grinding and removal, storm cleanup, bush hogging/ brush removal, land clearing, and emergency tree service. Stump grinding or removal is necessary because old stumps can be hazardous, especially for children playing in the yard. People, especially children, may trip on stumps possibly resulting into injury. Rotting tree stumps may also be used as home by termites or carpenter ants.
