Traverse City Roofing, a company based in Traverse City, MI, is proud to announce that they have once again landed a five-star review on Google. The roofing company offers roofing installation or repair services for residential and commercial customers. They are capable of handling any roofing requirements, from a simple tear off and re-shingle project to a brand new customized metal roof.

In Mike's review of Traverse City Roofing, he said, ?Seriously, are these guys the best roofing contractors ever? When you need a high-quality roofer you must get a hold of Traverse City Roofing. They just did the roof on an Airbnb we stayed at.?

James Thomas, a spokesperson for Traverse City Roofing, says, ?We?re really grateful to our customers like Mike M. for taking the time to leave a comment and expressing their satisfaction about the roofing project that we have completed. Please rest assured that we will continue to pursue our goal of always providing the best possible roofing service in any given situation.?

For residential customers, Traverse City Roofing can maintain, repair, or install various types of roofs. For those who have a roof that is showing signs of damage or disrepair, they suggest that homeowners hire the services of a professional and reliable roofing company and ensure that they can be trusted in the installation of a new roof. Such a roofing company must have a significant amount of experience in the roofing industry and offer a broad range of choices for roofs, at competitive prices, just like Traverse City Roofing.

Traverse City Roofing can install asphalt shingle and metal roofs. Asphalt shingle roofs are the easiest to install because the new shingles can be positioned on top of the old roof. It is not always necessary to tear off the old roof and then install the new shingles. Obviously, this option is for homeowners who are on a tight budget. On the other hand, the homeowner may want to have a metal roof instead, which offers the benefits of being very durable, fire resistant, stylish, and energy-efficient. Metal roofs have been recently becoming more popular, particular those roofs constructed from brand new copper, which has a beautiful blue-green patina. Copper roofs may last for as long as 50 years or more, with just a few repairs and maintenance. Copper is also very much resistant to fire, hail, and mildew.

For commercial buildings, flat roofs are often used. Flat roofs are usually made of metal, and if they are properly maintained, they can have a life span of almost 35 years. Another possible material for flat roofs is ethylene propylene diene monomer (EPDM) or rubber. EPDM material that has been specifically designed and engineered for roofs is capable of resisting damage due to the sun.

They can also install various kinds of siding, such as vinyl siding, cedar shakes, or wood siding. Vinyl siding has emerged as the most frequently used and most popular siding in the US today. It is made up of two layers that are primarily made from polyvinyl chloride and resin. The top layer is the cardstock, and the second layer is the substrate. The top layer usually makes use of titanium dioxide for coloration and for protecting the siding from UV radiation damage. The second layer usually contains limestone to minimize the siding cost. Vinyl sidings offer the advantage of needing minimal maintenance, having incredible durability, and the ability to last for years. It also offers weatherproofing, cost-effectiveness, and aesthetics.

Meanwhile, wood siding is still a popular choice and offers the advantage of providing the home or property with natural aesthetic appeal. Wood siding can have a lifespan of 20 to 40 years, and possibly even longer when carefully maintained.
