Advanced Skin Fitness Medical Spa & CoolSculpting Center, based in Dallas, TX, has recently published a blog post that explains what people should expect during their skincare consultation. They want to point out that a good skincare consultation may help in the development of a customized skin care regimen and treatment plan that is most suitable for the client's skin.

James, a spokesperson for Advanced Skin Fitness, says, "In today's fast-paced, media-driven environment, we are bombarded on a daily basis with ads, blogs, celebrity endorsements, and tweets about the plethora of different ways to maintain flawless skin. You aren't the only one feeling a little overwhelmed. A good consultation with a skincare expert can help you make sense of all the information out there, and it can also help you come up with a skin care regimen and treatment plan that is perfect for your skin."

The first thing to do after booking a skincare consultation is for the client to take into account the various concerns and issues about his or her skin and come up with a list of questions to bring along for the consultation. The skincare specialist will begin the consultation by evaluating any cosmetic issues that the client may have about his or her skin. This can be a great help to the skincare specialist in determining the client's priorities and in developing a treatment plan that will meet the client's goals and aspirations.

The new article also explains why it is important for the skincare specialist to know the client's skincare and medical history. The skincare specialist may ask about the client's history of smoking, sunbathing, eczema, asthmas, or psoriasis, and other important lifestyle factors. This will provide the esthetician with an idea about those things that have affected the skin and have contributed to its current condition.

After discussing skincare and medical history, and the esthetician has evaluated the client's skin, the client can discuss with the skincare specialist the various options that are available. There are many state-of-the-art and advanced treatment products and solutions that can help in healing and rebuilding the skin, to get rid of age spots, enhance skin elasticity, reduce fine lines, or simply revitalize the skin after a harsh winter.

And during the skincare consultation, after the specific treatment has been determined, they will also discuss any available promos. Those who are thinking of trying a treatment but are not yet sure are encouraged to go to their website can book a free consultation. This may be in the form of an online chat with one of the Advanced Skin Fitness Medical Spa & CoolSculpting Center aesthetic experts. There is no limit to the number of questions that people can ask and it is a zero obligation consultation.

They offer various treatments for the skin and face. These include the hydro facial skin resurfacing, Clear + Brilliant fractional laser treatment, microdermabrasion, microneedling with RF, laser resurfacing, chemical peels, Dermafrac, Ultherapy, vShape, photofacial, vampire facials, and spider vein treatments.

The hydrofacial skin resurfacing treatment consists of three steps: cleanse and peel; extract and hydrate; and fuse and protect. It is a non-surgical, non-invasive treatment that offers the benefits of an elevated chemical peel. Clear + Brilliant is a fractional laser treatment designed to rejuvenate the skin to get ride of fine lines and wrinkles, fight dullness of the skin, and eliminate large pores, hyperpigmentation, and uneven skin tone. Microdermabrasion is a non-invasive treatment designed to enhance the texture of the skin by eliminating dead outer layer of the skin and completely clearing clogged pores. It is an exfoliation process that can minimize wrinkles, leathery skin, fine lines, clogged and enlarged pores, brown spots, imbalanced pigmentation, acne scarring, and crow's feet around the eyes.
