percent customer satisfaction. And we are also thankful to our customers who took the time to leave us some kind words. New Braunfels Roofing - Cool Roofs Inc. offers commercial, military, and residential roof repair or installations in New Braunfels and neighboring areas. Whether the customer requires some repairs on an existing roof or is building a new home, they are ready to provide the service that is required. It may also be an emergency situation where a storm or hail had damaged the roof. Hail is particularly harmful to roofs because it can break or bruise the granules that result into loss of function for the roof.

And aside from providing installation or repair service for the roof, they can also provide installation or repair for gutters. Gutters are prone to getting clogged because twigs, leaves, and other debris can accumulate, resulting into a blockage that prevents the water from going to where it should be.

New Braunfels Roofing - Cool Roofs Inc. can also install metal roofs, which have been gaining in popularity because of their durability. A metal roof can have a lifespan of over 30 years with just a little maintenance. Oftentimes, a metal roof will just require some repainting rather than repair or replacement. They have a team of metal roof specialists who can do installation or maintenance work for metal roofs.

For commercial roofs, the company has vast experience, having completed more than 300 commercial roof projects. Their product line for commercial roofs includes: thermoplastic polyolefin (TPO), roof coatings, spray foam roofs, and metal roofs. TPO is ideal for commercial buildings, offering a roof that is reliable, energy efficient, cost effective, and easy to install. It has exceptional resistance to chemicals, ozone, and ultraviolet radiation. Installation does not require tear-off, which means business operations will not be disrupted. And it comes with a 15 to 20 year warranty.

Roof coatings can also be provided to extend and protect the lifespan of roof assemblies for both existing roof coverings and new construction. These can protect the roof from the impact of the environment and weather, including ultraviolet radiation and strong winds and rain. Meanwhile, spray foam is often used to make commercial roofs more energy-efficient. It also provides durability and tensile strength.

They can also provide roofs for military bases in various parts of the US. Recent military projects were at the Naval Air Station in Pensacola and Tyndall Air Force based in Panama City, Florida.
