Cambridge Electronics Customers Who Refer a Friend Can Get a Reward

April 15, 2021

April 15, 2021 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Telus/Cambridge Electronics Incorporated, a company based in Fort Saskatchewan, Alberta, Canada, is happy to announce that their existing customers can get paid by referring friends and family members to sign up with Telus. This promotion allows customers to receive a reward valued by as much as $250. Each product that the friend or family signs up for earns customers a reward worth $50. This was announced by the company in a new GMB post.

In addition, every friend or family who is referred by a customer to join the Telus family will be helping support programs like the Telus Mobility for Good. This is an initiative by the company to provide free smartphones and data plans to low-income seniors and the youth who are leaving foster care. This program is vital because the phone can serve as a lifeline, allowing the recipients to remain connected with loved ones and establish new lives, while maintaining essential support networks. Mobility for Good provides support to vulnerable members of the community by providing them with subsidised phones and plans.

Customers who refer a friend or family will earn a $50 bill credit. Furthermore, each of the referred friends will also be provided with a $50 bill credit. Those who are interested can contact the Telus/Cambridge Electronics Incorporated store for more details. In addition, those who go to their location in Fort Saskatchewan in the Cornerstone Mall will be getting an extra bonus.

Dan LHeureux, a spokesperson from Telus/Cambridge Electronics Incorporated, says, "We're excited to announce our Refer a Friend program. Customers can earn a $50 bill credit by simply referring a friend or family member who signs up with Telus. Furthermore, each of the referred friends will also be provided with a $50 bill credit. And don't forget to inform your friends and family about Babylon by Telus Health, which is a virtual care service made available through an app, allowing users to have video consultations with a provincially-licensed physician."

Low-income seniors and young people in Canada who are aging out of foster care can apply for Mobility for Good through the Telus/Cambridge Electronics Incorporated website. One example of a vulnerable community member who has benefitted greatly from the program is Suzie. The smartphone and free data plan given to her through the program has allowed her to keep in contact with her foster mother, who continues to be her biggest support person.

Meanwhile, through Babylon by Telus Health, users can also check their symptoms and have digital records of their interactions with the service store in Canada. Babylon Health is a UK-based healthcare organisation and technology provider that has formed local partnerships in various parts of the world. In Canada, the primary care and technology operations of Babylon are operated by a Canadian clinical team governed by Provincial laws and regulations, and supported by Telus.

At present, all residents of Ontario, British Columbia, and Alberta are able to use Babylon by Telus Health, allowing them to have video consultations with licensed physicians in their province at no cost to them. The Symptom Checker feature of Babylon by Telus Health is also available throughout Canada for free.

Meanwhile, Telus/Cambridge Electronics Incorporated wants people to know that their store has about a dozen Telus specialists who can assist customers in offering solutions to their problems and in choosing the appropriate Telus products. These professionals are there to take care of the complicated issues that customers may encounter with any of the Telus products. As such, they make it easy for customers to choose the appropriate wireless device and accessories, integrating them with web services already used by customer, sharing these devices on social networks, and monitoring their results.
