April 16, 2021

New Braunfels, Texas - April 16, 2021 -
New Braunfels, Texas. Cool Roofs Inc. recently worked with the Community Child Development Center on their roofing project installing a .24 gauge Galvalume r-panel metal roofing system.

They want to thank the school for selecting them as their local candidate to re-roof this property. At Cool Roofs, they are a value-driven company that has a focus on their clients and their needs. We understand the value and importance of staying local and building local.

In this industry, it is not uncommon to find an out-of-state or city roofing contractor traveling to install the roofing system. Cool Roofs stays local to the area servicing New Braunfels, Seguin, Schertz, San Antonio, Boerne, San Marcos, Canyon Lake, Kyle, and Buda, Texas. It is important to not only find a value-driven firm that can execute the project but even more important to find someone who is local to an area. They pride themselves on the 125+ 5 star customer reviews and will continue to focus on the development of better service when working with clients and their roofing needs.
