

Pure Vitality Magnesium Oil Awarded Number One Release Ribbon

September 29, 2015

Beaverton, Oregon based Pure Vitality Minerals has announced that they were recently awarded the number one new release ribbon on Amazon. After the launch of their latest Pure Vitality Magnesium Oil, the company received the ribbon on September 21, 2015.

Keegan Allen, spokesperson for the company, said, "We are pleased, of course, and are looking forward to the next product that we will release on the marketplace. We strive to provide our customers with the best products possible, and this award is truly an honor for us."

The magnesium oil was released just a few weeks before the company was awarded the best new release ribbon. The product had stiff competition in its category. Keegan Allen points out, "We knew that our product was good. We're just glad others can see it, too."

The magnesium oil is offered in a spray, and the spray has been designed to give a faster and more convenient way to transmit magnesium chloride into the body. This is one reason why Amazon deemed it a number one new product. Its relatively new innovation has been found to have taken many shoppers by surprise.

Magnesium oil by itself has been found to be important for the body to control stress and help produce serotonin, as well as to relieve anxiety and help with headaches. But the spray has been designed to offer a much more effective way of getting this needed mineral into the body, and it has been observed to take much less time to begin working than by taking supplements.

Since its launch, the oil has received several positive consumer reviews, and currently has a near five star rating, in addition to being hailed by Amazon as one of the best new products to be introduced in September.

More about Pure Vitality, including a complete list of the products that the company produces, can be seen on the company's official website, and those interested in learning more about the magnesium oil spray can find it on the Amazon marketplace at <http://www.amazon.com/Magnesium-Oil-Spray-8oz-Exceptionally/dp/B010V8TPU6>.
