

Paulette Esposito Launches New Book On Amazon Called God Tweets

September 28, 2015

September 28, 2015 -
Paulette Esposito has announced that her newest Amazon book, "God Tweets" is now available on the marketplace. Esposito explains, "The book is a day book from January 1 through December 31, each page having a tweet on it with some lines to write personal reflections. It can be used as daily inspiration, or as an oracle. If you have questions or troubling issues, then you may just find an answer in the book."

The Amazon Book God Tweets contains 365 short messages from God. Rev. Paulette Esposito says the idea came to her when she received a message saying that God should have a presence on Twitter. Each day she asks, "OK Lord, what message do you want your beloved children to hear today?" Inside the book are the answers that she has gained.

Esposito is an inspired motivational speaker, coach and counselor with a diverse and unique background. She provides powerful services to others through her professional and volunteer work, drawing on her experience as a high-level executive in large companies, intensive spiritual training and personal spiritual engagement.

Born and raised in Connecticut, Paulette Esposito earned her Bachelor of Arts degree in psychology from Norwich University. Throughout her career in business, she has held senior positions in two Fortune 200 companies where she focused on coaching, change management, and the development and execution of training strategies and team facilitation. Additionally, Paulette provided outplacement workshops and counseling for hundreds of career and executive coaching clients.

She was ordained as an Interfaith Minister of Spiritual Counseling by The New Seminary in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York. Rev. Esposito uses her spiritual gifts and training by conducting weekly services at her Tree of Life Interfaith Temple. Additionally, she facilitates pre-marital counseling and creates custom designed weddings and other Celebrations of Life.

In addition to "God Tweets", Paulette is the author of "Ignite Joy Now!", a unique workbook that enables people to assess the pros and cons of their professional and personal lives and live in Joy. More about the author can be seen at http://www.trupublishing.com/.
