Miami, Fla ? When the COVID-19 pandemic began last year, businesses found many creative ways to avoid germ transfer. One of these tactics included installing plexiglass sheet barriers between employees and customers. As most businesses are still using these plexiglass sheets, Awards TrophyWorld, a local Miami awards shop, is continuing to offer customized germ barriers.

As the nation remains cautious of the COVID-19 virus, the protective measures taken by businesses this past year are beginning to require renewal. At the start of the pandemic, many businesses had to quickly install plexiglass sheet barriers in various places within their storefronts. Because purchasing standard barriers was faster and simpler than purchasing them custom-made, many businesses are likely still working with plexiglass sheets that are not optimal for their space or store structure.

With Awards TrophyWorld custom germ barriers, businesses can enjoy working with barriers that fit perfectly within the interior structure of their storefront, making customer-employee interactions much smoother and convenient. In addition, if a business?s current barriers have accumulated scratches over the year, it can affect the overall appearance of the whole storefront. A fresh, custom set of plexiglass germ barriers make a world of difference.

As a proud Miami business, Awards TrophyWorld understands the importance of keeping a professional, clean, and fresh appearance in a storefront. They are urging businesses to take a look at their current germ barriers, as well as other protective measures they have in place. Keeping these items updated is an important aspect of a business?s image.

Awards TrophyWorld is dedicated to providing quick service, competitive pricing, high convenience, and a wide variety of products. They offer corporate gifts, business promotional products, and many different custom awards, such as trophies, marble awards, acrylic awards, and plaques.
