

Obtaining A Visa For Studying In The UK

September 22, 2015

September 22, 2015 -
London, UK, SEP 18, 2015 ? In keeping with their mission to raise educate travellers on the VISA process, VisaCompare (www.visacompare.com) has just published a new blog post entitled 'Want to Study in the UK? Find Out Why You Need Quality Visa Services'.

The article discusses how Higher education in Britain is known far and wide for its quality. The government goes above and beyond to make sure that high educational standards are maintained which is why Universities and colleges are regularly inspected by the Quality Assurance Agency for Higher Education.

The article states that in addition to nationality, immigration status, and purpose, one's current immigration status requires they meet eligibility requirements first. In the UK, there are 'two visa types applicable for adults: the short-term student visa and the tier 4 student visa'.

The article points out that 'if a student is aged 18 or over, they can study in the U.K. for up to six months and if they are taking an English language course, they may stay for up to eleven months. For students 16 years of age and above offered a place on a course, a tier 4 student visa is more suitable'.

VisaCompare has a mission to provide help specifically with the Visa application process and acquisition. An
