September 22, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

SEATTLE ? Rainier View Advisors, a financial planning and investment advisory group, launched today, serving the retirement and investment needs of clients in the Seattle area. The firm is distinctive, taking the form of a fee-only independent financial planning firm. Rainier View avoids the potential conflict of interest that can arise when a financial advisor receives additional revenue for promoting particular resources, products, or investment options. They are a neutral party.

?We excel at getting to know you, a process that comes from answering any question that you think is relevant to your financial future,? said Owner is Roderick Givens. ?Our clients want to know if they are on track for retirement. They ask, ?Can I change careers and still be financially ok?? They want to figure out paying for college, and so forth. Our approach is to learn about each client?s family and unique priorities. The right financial plan will follow naturally from this understanding.?

Rainier View Advisors is focused on being the local, trusted advisor for such communities as Beacon Hill, Columbia City, Renton, Tukwila, Mt. Baker, Rainier Beach, South Downtown and Georgetown. In addition to financial planning, selected services offered by Rainier View Advisors include investment review and strategy implementation, tax planning, college planning, pre- and post-retirement planning, asset protection, budgeting, estate planning strategies, lump-sum distribution advice and career transitioning.

The firm expresses its values by making a commitment to its clients. "As your investment advisor, it is our mission to commit to providing the best possible services," Givens commented. "Our clients are at the root of our business, and without you, we wouldn't be here." Rainier View Advisors strives to work to understand each client's situation, educate the client on the best solutions based on individual needs, respect the client's money, solve problems without selling a product, monitor client progress and stay in touch on each step in the process.
