September 28, 2015

September 28, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

San Diego, California based social media management company, ProMediaAuthority, has announced a promotion for their popular press release writing services. Andrew Stangl, spokesperson for the company, has recently announced that they will begin offering written-for-you press releases, and to celebrate the new service, they will be offering them at a discount. He explained, "To celebrate the offering of this service, we are inviting the public to visit our Facebook page, like us, and enjoy a very limited time offer of 50 percent off on any press release services we provide."

The company wants to stress that while most press release providers focus only on press release distribution, their company is different. In addition to offering distribution, they will also be providing press release writer services, written specifically for each client, as if the clients were writing the releases themselves.

ProMediaAuthority provides social media management services, and has only recently begun offering specialized press release writing. The company states that their press releases, geared toward each individual company and written expressly for each client, will provide a wealth of benefits to businesses and individuals alike.

"Whether a huge business or a single entity, press releases are important," states Andrew Stangl. "A press release is an important part of overall business promotion, getting attention to the business in a way that no other technique can do."

The company reiterates that while most other services will distribute press releases to various distribution sites, most of them require that the release be already written. Andrew Stangl explains, "A unique feature of our business is that we are offering to do literally all the work that is needed. Not only will we craft a professional sounding press release, we know exactly where to distribute it for the best possible attention to each customer."

The company states that the promotion, which is designed to celebrate their new service offering, can be found by visiting their Facebook page. Customers simply choose the service that best fits their need and then enter the promotion code "pmafallreleases" at checkout. More about ProMediaAuthority can be seen on their Facebook or Twitter pages or on their official website where a complete list of service offerings can be found.
