The roof is the part of the home that is most battered by the elements. It has to continuously withstand the onslaught of the sun, rain, hail, snow, and other extreme weather conditions. As a house?s roof ages, it becomes more and more vital to maintain it. One of the easiest forms of maintenance that one can perform on a roof is cleaning it periodically. This has many benefits.

The primary benefit is the prevention of the growth of algae and moss. There are many crevices all over the roof that are under shadow most of the day. Depending on where a person lives, there might also be a lot of moisture in the air. These two conditions are ideal for algae to grow and thrive. Algae growth when left unchecked can weaken the integrity of the shingles. The only way to prevent this is periodic cleaning of the roof so that the algae does not gain a foothold on it.

Attempting to clean a roof without proper training or equipment is harmful in two ways. First, improper cleaning methods can cause damage to the roof. The shingles weakly adhere to the roof and if one attempts to clean them aggressively then they might break off. This would create unwanted repairs that increase both cost and time.

Secondly, the roof is a hazardous place to be working on. Without proper equipment, anyone attempting to clean the roof is tempting fate. According to statistics, roofing fatalities accounted for 96 of the 5,250 work-related fatal injuries that occurred in 2018. This equates to an average rate of fatal injury per 100,000 workers that is 15 times greater than all other professions.

A professional would not only finish the job with high accuracy and on time but also while maintaining all the required safety precautions. When in doubt about one?s ability to pull off a difficult task such as roof cleaning, it is recommended to call the experts and to let them handle it. Racine Property Services, Inc. pressure washing services use state-of-the-art equipment and follow all industry-standard safety protocols to deliver high-quality work every time.

A spokesperson for the company talks about its roof cleaning services by saying, ?The roof is the home?s first line of defense against nature.
