

Knives Ship Free Announces Exclusive Deal For the Axis Stryker II Benchmade Knife

October 05, 2015

October 05, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Knives Ship Free, a Michigan based knife dealer, has announced an exclusive deal with Benchmade Knives to sell their 908BK-1501 Axis Stryker II. Knives Ship Free is now offering the knife exclusively for their customers.

Derrick Bohn, spokesperson for the Michigan company, states, "We have always wanted to collaborate with Benchmade Knives on an exclusive, and we have finally done it. They offer a great selection of knives, but we felt that that Axis Stryker II was one that we just had to offer to our customers."

Knives Ship Free will be offering Benchmade's 908BK-1501 Axis Stryker II exclusively on their website and their brick and mortar store. The Axis Stryker is a full size folding knife that the company states is lightweight and easier to carry than most full sized models. It features a black coat, and is crafted from CPM-M4, which is a high vanadium carbon steel. "It's tough and resists corrosion, which are only two of the reasons we're thrilled with the exclusive," points out Derrick Bohn.

Knives Ship Free features the largest knife store showroom in Michigan, and offers products both through the store and through their website. Benchmade Knives was established in 1988, and has grown substantially over the past few years. They also offer tools for elite tactical operators and first responders, in addition to their selection of quality built knives.

The collaboration between Benchmade Knives and Knives Ship Free has been a deal several months in the making, and the two companies state that they couldn't be happier about the exclusive deal. The Axis Stryker is available now through the Michigan based superstore or on the official website of Knives Ship Free. Those interested in learning more about the knife deal, and specifics about the Axis Stryker can contact Knives Ship Free for a complete list of specs, as well as pricing information.
