EMFURN, a high-end retailer of living room items Montreal, Canada, has announced their offer of custom, top quality, iconic, designer furniture, mid century modern furniture classics, and modern Bauhaus furniture. Though they may be a relatively new company, they offer a wide selection of affordable furniture with contemporary and modern design. They also offer reproduction of furniture and lamps at prices that are affordable compared to other retailers.

The company distinguishes itself from others by offering clients the option to customize their products. Ryan added, "We understand furniture is a highly personal decision, which is why we avail you with personal customization options. Your home or office can be as unique as you are." The customization, apparently, is one reason why the company continuously gains trust from clients.

Aside from mid-century modern furniture and other valuable items, EMFURN said that it is different from other furniture companies that consumers see offline and online. They expressed that they are focusing on reliable customer service, high value and great quality products. The company has stated, "We firmly believe that the customer comes before profit and so we place more emphasis on quality of product, quality of service and offer free North American shipping on most items."

EMFURN has proven to be the number one source of furniture with contemporary, mid-century and modern designs. The company takes pride in their capability to address the increasing demand for modern furniture that is of high quality, but without the expensive pricing.

Ryan Kerber, Vice-president of Emfurn Modern Furniture, puts emphasis on the fact that it is not about making sales, but about providing true value and building relationships with customers. The business also upholds three core values, Affordability, Quality and Reliability. At such a young age in the market, the company has been serious about becoming a significant and valuable part of the modern furniture industry. Currently, the store is able to serve customers from all over North America.
