A leading tree service company in Rancho Cucamonga, J&M Tree Service Rancho Cucamonga has released a video about keeping trees safe. The educational video was created because of the company's commitment to share their expertise and help educate tree owners in the communities which they serve. The video focuses on the approaching summer season and provides a number of tips for tree owners to help their trees continue healthy growth through the summer and into the winter season.

In the video, there is great emphasis put on the roots of trees and explanations as to how vulnerable they are to pressure on the soil above. The video specifically mentions, "The roots are critical to a tree's health. To keep trees safe avoid common activities that cause root damage and death of trees." One of these activities advised against are compacting soil surrounding trees by storing heavy materials near trees, or routing excessive foot or vehicle traffic over tree roots.
