November 05, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Bloomington, Minnesota based real estate company JGM Properties has announced the availability of a number of St Paul medical spaces for lease. In addition to the property listings, the company is also providing potential clients with a list of things that they should keep in mind when searching for medical space.

Eli Russell, spokesperson for the company, explains, "We can help our clients to locate and lease the perfect property, we just need to know what they need. We'll also offer tips on choosing spaces in the right location and with the right amenities." He also points out that the properties currently available offer a number of contract options and that clients should contact the firm for more information.

JGM Properties has hundreds of listings for commercial spaces including medical and office space. They would like to stress that a common misconception when leasing is that new is better. "This is not necessarily true," explains Eli Russell. "Many older properties are very well designed and offer the same amenities as newer properties, often at a lower cost."

They would also like to emphasize that those searching for properties should bear in mind that it is often possible to negotiate things, such as certain changes, into a leasing contract. Those who may think that they will need to expand their space in the future can often negotiate these terms into their lease.

JGM Properties has a number of properties that are available for lease, and many of them have negotiable contracts, meaning that tenants may be able to change what they need to change in order to make a specific medical space work for them, if all other aspects of the property are just what they need.

They offer a number of tips for clients who need office or medical space, and urge clients to contact them with any questions about the spaces that they have available.
