A local tree service company in Fresno, CA, Tree Service Fresno has release an educational video providing tips for summer tree care. The purpose of the video is to help tree owners better understand the proper care for their trees' continued healthy growth throughout the summer months and going into winter. The video focuses on the proper care for newly planted trees in the spring time. One of the interesting points the video mentions is "Young trees need lots of water so they can estalish their roots in the soil, but don't over do it." Its a fine line, but the moisture should be just right. Not soaking wet, but also not bone dry. The video goes into further detail explaining how to check the soil to determine a tree needs water or not.
