San Antonio, TX based Carabin Shaw P.C. is pleased to announce that attorney Joseph Barrett Deacon recently joined their team of skilled and dedicated lawyers.

According to the firm, Joseph Barrett Deacon is a fierce legal advocate for hard-working people and their families. His winning track record in both state and federal courts has inspired respect and recognition from his peers while his clients value the personal and compassionate approach he takes to every case. He has lots of experience in the field of law, being a practicing trial attorney for more than 40 years.

Throughout his many years as a lawyer, he has gained a unique perspective from serving as the legal counsel for both plaintiffs and defendants in personal injury and business litigation cases. This gives him the ability to predict what the other side's legal strategies will be and come up with the best way to protect his clients' interests. His broad experience also spans personal injury cases, wrongful death, product liability claims, dangerous drugs and medical devices, railroad, agricultural litigation, complex business disputes and mass torts.

Attorney Deacon has handled lots of large cases throughout his prestigious career. He has battled global agribusiness companies for the damage that they have caused to farmers and other farming entities by including unapproved traits in genetically modified crops. As lead trial counsel, he has dealt with and successfully defended against hundreds of lawsuits claiming that the largest rice mill and marketer of long grain rice in the US contaminated the country's rice supply with an unapproved genetically modified rice. He also served as the lead counsel in a court trial that eventually led to the largest jury verdict in the history of Arkansas. In this trial, he secured an amount of $136.8 million for his client. These are only some examples of his successes. More information about what he has done and continues to do can be found on his website.

Attorney Deacon has earned multiple awards thanks to his skill and commitment to protecting his clients' rights. The recognitions that he has earned include being recognized in Super Lawyers for 15 years in a row for the areas of personal injury and business litigation; being recognized in Best Lawyers in America in the areas of product liability, commercial litigation and railroad law; receiving the highest rating for legal ability and high ethical standards from Martindale-Hubbell for over 30 years; and receiving the Outstanding Attorney of the Year award from the Arkansan Association of Defense Counsel in 2007.
