Cherry Hill, NJ ? Legacy Healing Center, with locations in Margate, Pompano Beach, and Delray Beach Florida has recently opened a new behavioral health center in Cherry Hill, New Jersey and it?s already generating a lot of buzz. Legacy brings its holistic treatment approach to the Northeast region to better serve the needs of the local community there.

In a recent five-star Google review, a client named Justin described how Legacy is reshaping the community for the better, ?To have Legacy Healing Center in New Jersey is such a huge asset to the recovery community and anyone struggling with substance abuse? he says.

Recent data suggests drug overdoses are on the rise with 50,000 deaths across the US just due to opioid-involved overdoses in 2019. CDC data also shows that the Northeast US sees more drug overdoses than any other region, highlighting the importance of access to local, high-quality treatment centers.

Governor Phil Murphy also announced back in March his opioid policy proposals for 2021 in response to the 3,040 overdose deaths in 2020 and 540 deaths just in the first two months of 2021. These proposals call for more harm reduction programs and increased access to naloxone (brand name Narcan) for drug users. Treatment centers, like Legacy Healing Center, will help reinforce the state's commitment to battling this national health emergency.

In his Google review, Justin adds, "The team has already made a difference in the lives of so many families and loved ones, the impact in Cherry Hill will be remarkable," illustrating the significant impact a proven successful rehab program like Legacy's can have on the fight against addiction.

Having easy access to a local addiction treatment center has many benefits, including lower travel costs, the ability to continue to work, keep up with home life obligations, and school while seeking treatment. It also allows better access to a support network during and after the treatment program. Legacy Healing Center's mission is to lay the foundation for recovery, address underlying issues in the process, and get their patients on track to a better life than they ever dreamed possible. Also, many of the staff at Legacy Healing Center in Cherry Hill are from the Northeast and in recovery themselves, allowing them to personally understand the particular challenges many in the region are facing.

Legacy Healing Center offers holistic and dual-diagnosis treatment at their Cherry Hill center. They focus on diagnosing and treating any co-occurring mental health issues to get to the root of the addiction and give their patients the greatest chance of achieving long-term sobriety. They offer an individualized approach including multi-tiered outpatient programs, to give each patient the greatest amount of freedom without risking their chance for recovery. Their facility also offers a comfortable luxury feel so each person can focus on their recovery in the most relaxing way.

For anyone struggling with addiction, call Legacy Healing center at (888) 534-2295. Their addiction specialists can answer any questions and help start the path to a clean, sober life with endless possibilities.
