September 27, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Earlier today, Bella Joi happily announced that their cream for stretch marks removal can be used not just for the abdomen, but also for the thighs, breasts and even buttocks area. These body parts are very prone to develop unwanted stretch marks especially during pregnancy.

"We are ecstatic to share with everyone that our highly recommended stretch marks lotion that is available online can be used not only in the abdomen, but also in different parts of the body. Its formula was made to help nourish the skin especially during delicate periods such as pregnancy", says Holly Richards, Bella Joi spokesperson. "We always value quality and rest assured that we will continue to provide you with awesome beauty products that are not only effective, but affordable as well."

If the reviews are to be considered, this lotion has been making waves among those with stretch marks. In a review by Angela Fetterolf at Amazon, she wrote, --"This cream does not feel greasy or oily. It absorbs quickly which is a huge plus! I can apply it after the shower and put my clothes on without feeling like everything is being stained or stuck to me. You get quite a bit for your money and the smell is great. Feels awesome. I am looking forward to seeing how it diminishes my stretch marks. Also, is very easy to get out of the bottle and doesn't appear to clog easily.?

Manufactured in a technologically-advanced laboratory facility in the US, this lotion contains several natural ingredients including three nourishing butters, which are Mango, Cocoa and Shea. It also includes a generous amount of antioxidants in the form of Aloe. To prevent the oily feeling when applied to the skin as well as for easier absorption, the creator of the concoction included Capric Triglyceride. Each bottle also has Rose Hip Seed oil, Jojoba oil and Olive oil. It can be safely used even during pregnancy.

This lotion was created by a naturopathic doctor. Ever since it was released, it has received many positive feedbacks from users who got it online at www.amazon.com/Bella-Joi-Stretch-Mark-Cream/dp/B00MSZNAWK.
