Phillip Wood, a spokesperson for Steadfast Tree Care, says, ?We offer an affordable, fast response time that is second to none. If you want your property to be full of healthy trees, call us for a free estimate today. We offer a variety of tree trimming maintenance, repair and restoration services. These include things like tree pruning, fertilizing, removal, cabling or bracing trees to make them stronger, mulching, plus much more.?

The company?s arborists provide tree work of all types to clients, including planting, inspection, trimming, fertilizing and more. An ISA Certified Arborist is someone who has successfully completed the following education requirements: a bachelor?s degree in forestry or horticulture including at least one year of work experience where they worked with trees professionally. They have also passed an exam called Certified Arborist Examination/National Exam and they are usually members of the Tree Care Industry Association.

An important question to ask is why would a homeowner or property owner hire an arborist for tree care services instead of doing the task themselves. There are actually several reasons for hiring a company with experience instead of attempting a DIY tree care project. One of the main reasons is safety. Tree removal poses serious risk for homeowners, employees, including passersby if it is not done properly.

Another reason to hire a professional tree care company is the liability of injury claim that could arise when homeowners attempt to remove trees themselves. For example, it is possible for homeowners using a chainsaw to accidentally cut off their fingers. Homeowners would need workers compensation insurance to have the cost of the medical bills covered.

There's also the possibility of property damage. Falling limbs and branches from tree pruning or felling a tree inappropriately can cause severe damage to the home, the lawn or the landscaping but this won't be compensated for by the homeowners insurance coverage alone.

Still another reason for getting the services of a tree professional is because certified arborists are usually completely insured and have expertise with pruning. Those who have tried trimming trees and shrubs know that it is not something that they should risk doing without experience or the right safety gear. Furthermore, arborists are knowledgeable about any permits that may be needed for a tree care project in the Fredericksburg area community.

Meanwhile, with regards to the cost of a tree removal project, this will depend on a number of factors. These factors include: location; size; type or species; site access; risk of injury or property damage; whether the debris will be left on site, or it will have to be hauled off; whether the tree is near utility lines; whether emergency services are needed; and whether tree stump removal or stump grinding will be required.

Another important service provided by Steadfast Tree Care Fredericksburg is tree trimming. Depending on the homeowner?s place of residence, trees growing close to power lines may be something that they need to worry about, or it may be handled by the city. However, when trees start to obstruct things on the property, particularly, the structure of the home, getting the services of a professional or expert in tree trimming may be advisable.

Tree branches and leaves that touch the house should be something that the homeowner ought to be concerned about. If they are not trimmed, they'll keep growing and potentially cause damage to certain parts of the home. Trees that grow their limbs over a roof are also dangerous because there is the potential of these limbs falling on the home and causing damage. In less severe cases, they may cause damage due to the dropping of leaves and debris on the roof and clogging the gutters and rainwater system.
