Portland, Oregon based VitaVersa has announced a special promotion on their bamboo cutting boards. Given that statistics show more California residents use bamboo cutting boards than those in other states, and with the holidays coming up, the company has launched a special promotion that is designed to give customers a discount when ordering the popular board.

The company has noted that Google trends over the past seven years have shown that California residents purchase bamboo cutting boards much more than others, and that peak periods occurred over the holiday period. In light of this information, the company decided to offer a promotional discount, and say that the information about California purchases is a fun fact that led them to lowering their prices initially.

"We just thought that it would be the perfect time to offer a pre-holiday discount," states Freida Peters of VitaVersa. "Whether you're in California or any other state, we want to be sure that you're getting the chance to order at the promotional price."

The company also wants to point out that prices are normally high on all products over peak periods like the holiday shopping period, because of increased demand. Thus, it is better to shop early for cutting boards, as they are a highly popular Christmas gift idea.

"Throughout our promotion, we are offering all customers 66 percent off retail when you shop on Amazon and use the coupon code TWJLBDWU at checkout," explains Freida Peters. The two toned stripped finish and antimicrobial properties of their bamboo cutting board, which can be seen and ordered at <http://www.amazon.com/dp/B00VL61ME0>, have been provided to enable it to be used for a number of purposes, such as a serving tray, or bread or cheese board. This makes it very versatile. "It's a great gift this autumn for upcoming weddings or bridal showers, housewarmings, retirement parties, or to get a jump on your holiday shopping," adds Freida Peters.
