October 01, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Evan Hutcheson, CPA, LLC, based in Nashville, TN, has announced a new suite of services specializing in craft brewery. A certified public accountant for many years, Hutcheson has decided to focus his services on a specific niche, which is for craft beer breweries, particularly those located in and around the Nashville area.

In correlation with this service, the craft brewery CPA has also launched a new website. The website offers information about specific services geared toward the microbrewery industry and provides information on price and other details. "My firm will specialize in outsourced accounting and consulting for craft breweries," explains Evan Hutcheson. "Our goal is to help our clients to reach success, while maintaining sustainable growth."

The decision to focus on craft breweries, according to Evan Hutcheson, came after noting that the CPA industry in general has become more niche based. He believes that in order to assist clients with the highest degree of professionalism, knowing about their industry is essential. "I know businesses within this industry need more than just your typical CPA," he says. "I know and enjoy the industry, offering my clients an edge that other firms do not."

The firm works with new or established microbreweries, and can consult and offer services from startup to full growth of the company. The firm strives to be the most trusted advisor in the brewery industry, and it offers years of expertise and innovation that will assist clients in meeting their goals, and at a fair price.

Evan Hutcheson pointed out that his firm will not bill clients by the hour, but by the specific level of services chosen. Once they are acquainted with a brewery, they will tailor their services to the specific needs of that individual business, developing a fixed value price for each client. He also urges clients to contact them. He says, "Phone calls and emails are on the house." The firm currently offers three levels of pricing, each providing specific benefits for breweries.
