LITTLETON, MA - June 28, 2021 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Cestari Kitchen, a brand of premier kitchen products for home cooks, is making available high-quality pastry blenders on its Amazon storefront.

The Cestari brand pastry blender is a professional pastry cutter made out of heavy-duty stainless steel. The blades cut butter into flour quickly and easily for making anything from flaky pie crust to Sunday morning biscuits to Thanksgiving pies to tea time scones or anything else that the buyer might see fit.

Normally, cutting cold butter into flour is a difficult task as it is hard and does not respond well to being mashed into the flour. The special design of Cestari's pastry blender solves this problem by cutting up the butter, rather than mashing it. The usage of cold butter while making pastries ensures that the pie crust is flakier compared to the output that one would get if warm or melted butter is used. The company is confident that the final product made using these blades will be appreciated by pastry connoisseurs.

The 4 heavy-duty blades on the professional-grade Cestari pastry blender are 1.5 mm thick. That depth is enough to make short work of the task of chopping up butter for mixing. The blades are also 50% thicker than most competitor's products enabling them to smoothly slice through cold butter straight out of the refrigerator without bending or breaking.

The joints are also made to be 1.5 mm thick which ensures that the blades won't snap off. Blades dislodging is a common occurrence when it comes to cheaper blenders that then need to be replaced frequently. The stronger, deeper blades of the Cestari pastry blenders are built to withstand rough use, guaranteeing that the buyer will use them again and again for a long time.

The focus on durability extends to the grip which is ergonomically designed to be comfortable and soft. The buyer will not suffer from sore hands as the grip provides ample space to grab on to. The handle absorbs all the pressure that is generally required while cutting up the cold butter to mix in with the flour. The large handles prevent the cook's hands from being tired due to being in constant contact with the grip.

The device is also made to be easy to clean. The wide gaps between the blades let the blender be easily cleaned using hot soapy water. The product is also dishwasher safe for those who prefer a hands-off approach to cleaning.

The product also has many other uses that are only limited by the imagination and skill of the cook. Apart from blending butter and flour, it can be used to mash avocados to make guacamole, chop bananas for baby food, or blend cream cheese for cheesecake just to name a few.

The product meets strict food safety standards for the EU. EU safety standards are much more stringent than those from the US FDA. This means that the consumer gets a better-designed, more well-rounded product as it adheres to stricter standards than those followed by other manufacturers in the US.

When asked about the product, a spokesperson for the company says, "We intend for the Cestari pastry blenders to be the last pastry blender that you will ever purchase and use. We have designed this item to be the perfect companion for your pastry-making adventures. A lot of love and care along with decades of technical expertise has gone into crafting a tool that you will always want to keep at hand every time you want to whip up some pie crust, biscuits, scones, streusel topping, and more. You will never feel the need to find another product of its kind once you purchase from us. To show our dedication to customer satisfaction, our pastry blender comes with Cestari's lifetime no-questions-asked replacement guarantee.
