The Mabra Law Firm, a leading personal injury law firm in Atlanta, GA, is proud to announce that they can provide the services of a top catastrophic injury lawyer in Atlanta, with a 99 percent success rate. The firm assures clients that they will fight to help them get the justice and compensation they deserve. They have been handling all kinds of accident cases that resulted into catastrophic injuries. Ronnie Mabra and his team have been fighting for the rights of their clients since 2007.

The law firm serves clients from Atlanta and other surrounding cities and towns, including Abbeville, Bainbridge, Calvary, Dunwoody, East Point, Fayetteville, Georgetown, Harrison, Homerville, Indian Springs, Jacksonville, Kings Bay Base, Lakeview Estates, Marshallville, North Decatur, Orchard Hill, Peachtree Corners, Richmond Hill, Sautee-Nacoochee, Taylorsville, Villa Rica, Walnut Grove, Young Harris, Zebulon, and many more.

Ronnie Mabra says, "Did you or a loved one suffer from trauma to your spinal cord or brain? Did a car accident result in the loss of your (or a loved one's) ability to walk? Did you (or a loved one) lose a limb during a workplace accident? If you were the victim of a catastrophic injury in Georgia, you don't have to worry. The Mabra Firm can help you get the compensation that you deserve."

Catastrophic injuries are injuries that substantially and permanently affect the lives of the injured party. They are so severe that the victims' quality of life is greatly impacted. These injuries include herniated discs that require a spinal fusion; full or partial paralysis from a spinal cord injury; broken bones corrected with rods, pins, plates, and screws to start healing; third-degree burns requiring an extended hospitalization; traumatic brain injury (TBI) that altered the injured party's mental state; amputations or loss of a limb; and any injuries that needed prolonged in-patient treatment or hospitalization. More about this can be gleaned from <https://sites.google.com/view/themabralawfirmpersonalinjury/catastrophic-injury-lawyer>.

It is important to note that people suffering from a catastrophic injury typically find themselves in a difficult situation, not just because of the pain and the impact on their lives but also the financial burden that they face. Even having the best possible insurance policy will not help if the accident was the fault of someone else. And if the responsible party doesn't have great insurance, the victim will be left being responsible for most of the medical bills.

It is, therefore, possible that catastrophic injury victims may find themselves having to file a lawsuit against the responsible party to get the compensation they deserve. A personal injury attorney with The Mabra Firm can help victims ensure that they're doing everything they need to obtain the largest amount of compensation possible.

Meanwhile, to be able to file a compensatory lawsuit as a result of a catastrophic injury in Georgia, two things have to be proven: that the responsible party was aware of his or her negligent behavior; and that the injured party was acting responsibly and safely.

The Mabra Law Firm points out Georgia is a modified comparative law state, which means that the injured party is considered to be less than 50 percent responsible for their injuries. This means that if the victim had actually contributed to the accident that caused the injuries, it is possible that the victim will not be able to file a compensation claim. The injured party is entitled to compensation if the responsible party knew about the possibility of an injury happening while doing nothing to prevent it from happening. The compensation includes medical bills, lost wages, and lifelong damages.

Ronnie Mabra explains, "You only have one shot at getting the compensation you deserve for the trauma you have gone through. Our staff will work tirelessly to prepare you for your case. We will make sure that, before you leave the courtroom, all of your needs have been met through the ruling. Contact the Mabra Firm today for the best experience from a catastrophic injury lawyer in Atlanta who knows what they are doing."
