Palm Beach Gardens, Florida. Mark L. Civin, D.D.S., P.A. announces that he has launched a dental blog that discusses topics focusing on General Dentistry. Although Mark Civin, D.D.S.'s services emphasize mainly the growing fields of cosmetic and restorative dentistry, the latest content on his blog concentrates on general dentistry topics, such as preventative care, root canal therapy, and wisdom tooth extraction. The site www.civinsmiles.com also provides an introduction to Dr. Civin's practice and the services he provides.

Education is the main way Dr. Civin reinforces preventative care to patients. There are many oral conditions and diseases that the average person can face, and Dr. Civin explains he is there to guide patients through the preventative and restorative processes. "For example, we discuss how a tobacco habit may inhibit improvements in oral health," he said. "Being thorough and informative with these important details are a key factor for successful treatment."

One goal stated on Dr. Civin's website is to make patients as comfortable as possible during dental procedures that can cause some people to be apprehensive. For this reason, Dr. Civin's office offers nitrous oxide analgesic, oral sedation, video and audio headsets. Also, in an effort by Dr. Civin's to keep the general public and potential patients informed, the site www.civinsmiles.com even features educational videos on preventative care and information about the latest advancements in cosmetic and restorative dentistry. Some titles on the site include "Advantages of In-office Teeth Whitening" and "How to Choose a Cosmetic Dentist." According to Dr. Civin, "Our mission is to provide the same care that each of us would want for ourselves and our families."
