July 14, 2021 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Front Runner Roofing has long been providing quality roofing services to those in Shelbyville and the surrounding areas of Kentucky. They have just announced that their service will now be extended to cover the city of Louisville, KY. This will give more people in Louisville greater access to this roofing company's highly rated commercial and residential roofing services.

Among the services that Front Runner Roofing will be offering in its expanded service territory includes whole roof replacements. This is the type of work that is often performed on aging roofs or those roofs that have been requiring frequent repairs. During this job, the old roof material is stripped off down to the plywood sheathing and then a fresh layer of insulating underlayment and shingles (or other roof covering) are put in place. The result is a beautiful-looking roof that is once again 100% watertight. They also are willing to take on all sizes of residential roof repairs. Customers can also expect expert roof inspection and resolution services from this newly expanded roofing company in Louisville, KY, and they have established a reputation for being one of the foremost metal roofing experts in the state of Kentucky. Their commercial roofing specialties include such popular flat roof applications as TPO (Thermoplastic Polyolefin) membranes, EPDM (synthetic rubber) roof coverings, and Modified Bitumen coatings.

The company is also one that's known for taking a no-nonsense approach with the roofing work that they perform. Mick Place, the company co-owner, clarified this by saying, "We are a 'no-fluff' roofing company. You won't get fishy sales tactics or unrealistic promises, just responsive communication, quality work, and clear expectations."

The Google Maps Business Listing reviews that have been left on Front Runner Roofing's service will give those in the Louisville area a good idea of the type of service they can expect from this reputable roofing company. Courtney Schnitzler stated, "We called multiple places to try to get a quote for a new roof and Front Runner was the only company that answered their phone. They did a great job! They came out for a quote immediately, showed us all the color and material options, and got us on the schedule quickly. Our new roof is beautiful! 10 out of 10. Gold star. High fives all around.?

Also announced along with the service territory expansion was the launch of Front Runner Roofing's new website. Place stated that their newly created website is much more user-friendly than their previous one and this should greatly enhance their customers' experience when using it. The website was a collaborative effort that combined the many years of roofing experience of the staff at the company with their marketing company's innovative web design skills. He says this has resulted in the creation of a new website that is very pleasing to the eye and allows users to move quickly to get to the exact information on this roofer's services that they need. It was mentioned that even the text on the page was presented more concisely and the site's pages are not overly cluttered with text and photos. Their homepage opens to a nice drone shot of a recent whole roof replacement and a form that allows the user to schedule a free roof inspection. The company owner also added that the new website describes how they are an extremely responsive company, how they guarantee all of their work, the pride they take in the cleanliness of their worksites when the job is finished, and how they have a steady track record of finishing most of their roofing projects in less than a day. It even includes some high-resolution photos of some of their completed roofing jobs.
