July 07, 2021

Stillwater, Oklahoma - July 07, 2021 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Stillwater, OK based auto insurance agent Brian Dudgeon is pleased to announce that he has recently celebrated his 17th year with Farmers Insurance.

Brian Dudgeon is a Farmers Insurance agent dedicated to helping people in the Stillwater area find the insurance coverage that is best suited to their needs. He is able to carry out his duties with distinction thanks to the knowledge and experience that he has accumulated over his 17 years in the business. Those who do not have much experience in securing insurance coverage need not be overly concerned as long as they place themselves in Dudgeon's hands. He always strives to ensure that the process is straightforward and tailored to help his clients become more knowledgeable about insurance, thereby enabling them to make informed decisions.

Dudgeon can assist with a wide variety of coverage options, such as auto insurance. This is vital for everyone as accidents can unfortunately happen without warning at any time, causing undue stress and financial setback. To prepare for accidents, it is highly recommended for an individual to secure auto insurance that covers a wide variety of potential mishaps. For example, liability insurance coverage is useful for covering the damage to property and other people that may result from an accident that the insured causes. On the other hand, collision coverage helps pay for the damages that the insured's vehicle may suffer. This coverage can help pay for the repairs that a damaged vehicle requires or even compensate the insured for the value of an irreparable vehicle.

Comprehensive coverage also exists to cover any vehicle damage that is caused by anything other than a collision. This is especially helpful for those who live in Stillwater as Oklahoman weather, particularly hailstorms, can easily damage vehicles. Uninsured motorist coverage is also important as there may be cases when the party responsible for the damage is not insured. When this happens, uninsured motorist coverage kicks in to pay for the costs of bodily injuries (up to the policy limit). Uninsured motorist coverage also takes effect when the responsible party's insurance is not enough to pay for all damages caused.

Another insurance option that Brian Dudgeon can help with is home insurance. As with auto insurance, there are different kinds of coverages for different situations. There are three main coverages for home insurance - dwelling, contents and liability. Dwelling coverage deals with damages that are caused by sudden accidents, such as fire, wind, lightning, falling objects and vandalism. Contents coverage deals with damages that may occur to the items that can be found inside a home. Liability coverage covers any damages and injuries that the insured may cause to other people and property. These types of insurance all work harmoniously to create comprehensive protection for people and their homes.

There are many factors to consider when dealing with different kinds of insurance. Fortunately, Dudgeon is ready to assist in selecting the coverage options that are best suited for his clients' needs. He does not only help with auto insurance and home insurance. He can also assist in a wide variety of other fields, including life insurance, renters insurance, business insurance and much more. Even after so many years in the industry, Dudgeon remains enthusiastic about bringing fantastic and affordable insurance coverage to the Stillwater community.

Clients have said great things about his services and the personalized assistance he provides. Marc T. says in a 5-Star Google review, "Brian has always taken good care of my insurance needs. When I have questions, he is very good about explaining everything in easy to understand terminology for the layman. All in all, I am very satisfied with his service. I can't recommend Brian Dudgeon enough!"
