If a homeowner suspects a tree on their property may be posing a threat to their home, it is best to be proactive and take preventative measures to avoid a mishap later. Property owners are responsible for the trees on their land. If someone is hurt because of a neglected tree on his or her property, it could open up a potential lawsuit against the homeowner. No homeowner wants to be tied up in legal matters over their trees especially when it could have been avoided. Regularly scheduled tree maintenance and assessments can avoid emergency situations before they ever happen.
