

Low Prices for Best Gear at Canadian Outdoor Supply Store

July 12, 2021

July 12, 2021 -

Langley City, BC - POCO Military and Outdoor Supplies has established itself as a leading provider of top-shelf recreational and survival equipment at some of the lowest available prices.

POCO Military and Outdoor Supplies owner Matt Baker says his business has experienced the type of growth and success many entrepreneurs his age hope for, but may not ever see. He believes one of the reasons for POCO's success is its expansive inventory, most of which is offered at extremely competitive pricing. As a one-stop shop for all things firearms, airsoft, outdoor rec like camping, fishing, and military-related, the company has gained an expansive customer base that stretches across Canada, all of which is serviced from their store in Langley City, BC.

?Selling essential goods related to outdoor survival and recreation and firearms always enjoys a level of steady sales because so many people enjoy having and using these types of things,? Baker says. ?In spite of the costs of maintaining a small business these days we never get greedy. The prices have to be fair because the customer will simply go somewhere else, and we certainly want our customers coming back. I think keeping prices steady, offering a diverse range of products, and of course, providing the best level of service possible have all paid off over the course of many years.?

Baker says he is also grateful they have been able to weather the challenges posed by the COVID-19 and subsequent lockdowns and restrictions.

?We have seen a lot of new faces over the past year, and many of them express gratitude at having ready access to items they may come to depend on for more than recreation someday.?

POCO is well-recognized for its extensive inventory of firearms (new and used) and ammunition, repair and disposal services, optics, and tactical equipment. Airsoft and paintball equipment are also POCO staples, as well as a full lineup of quality fishing gear, hats and clothing, and other fun gift ideas.
