

New Round Bento Lunch Box Launches

October 08, 2015

October 08, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Silibake, a kitchenware company in Fort Lauderdale, FL, has announced that they have launched their round Bento box, which could be used for lunch boxes or picnics. While the product has just been launched, it is already proving very popular and is selling out quickly.

"We launched our silicone pastry mat, our flagship product, some time ago, followed by our silicone cupcake liners and we are so proud to now be able to add our round Bento box to this selection," says Jeffrey Snow from Silibake. "We expect it to be equally popular with our customers who have already come to know us for our quality and customer service."

The round Bento box has a capacity for three cups. It comes with an easy carrying handle, which folds either up or down. This allows the box to be stored away without taking up too much space. The box is highly multi-functional and can be used for lunch boxes for children and adults alike, and also for parties, picnics and fundraising events.

The box is microwave safe, leak proof, BPA free, dishwasher safe, and freezer safe. It can be used again and again. One of the things that customers have appreciated about it above all else is that it is so child friendly. "The lid is really easy to open so it is perfect for my daughter's school lunch," says one happy customer. "The cover is also leak resistant, so I don't have to worry about her food and drinks spilling all over the inside of her bag."

The lunch Bento box comes with a divider, spoon and fork that can all be stored together. As a result, there is no more need to hunt for cutlery when it comes to lunch time. The company has also included a full, no questions asked money back guarantee, so people can buy with confidence.

Silibake has long been known for unusual and handy kitchen products. The company's goal is to create products that aren't just useful, but also fun to use. The Bento box is the latest in a line of products that aims to achieve that.
