Tree Service Experts Austin, a leading tree service company in Austin, TX is continuing to provide exceptional tree service and useful educational content in order to help the community of Austin maintain healthy trees while keeping their property safe. The company has released an informative video titled "Trees with Invasive Tree Roots". The video details specific trees property owners should avoid planting near near their homes and other buildings, or avoid planting them all together due to their aggressive root system. The root system of these trees have been known to damage and crack sidewalks, interfere with plumbing systems and grow beneath homes causing damage to concrete slabs and foundations.

Tree Service Experts Austin believes helping property owners to be more aware of these types of trees with invasive tree roots is the best way to help them avoid a major problem that could be very expensive to rectify. As the video points out, root invaders are not easy to get rid of. They cannot simply be dug out like a weed. Heavy-duty equipment and properly trained personnel will be required to fix the issue if it is allowed to get out of hand.

Property owners are responsible for the trees on their land, which makes tree inspections by qualified people a good idea. Tree inspections are a good idea because trees can have problems that go undetected for a very long time. Trees do not always show signs of damage on the outside right away. It takes a highly skilled individual to analyze trees to determine if they are ill and under some type of stress that could damage its long-term healthy growth. If some tree diseases go unnoticed for too long, the tree may not be able to be saved. Which is why scheduled tree inspections are important.

A certified arborist can help property owners schedule tree maintenance services to keep trees healthy and not become a hazard. Certified arborists can also help reduce growth rates typically found in younger and smaller sized trees. They can get rid of low hanging branches that are obstructing driveways all while keeping trees well-trimmed so as to maintain their beauty year round.

Tree Service Experts Austin have arborists that received certification from the International Society of Arboriculture. The International Society of Arboriculture (ISA) serves the tree care industry as a membership association and a credentialing organization that promotes the professional practice of arboriculture. Arborists are required to have a minimum of three years? experience prior to consideration to enter the ISA?s certification program.
