Indianapolis, IN. ? Last month, Indiana Governor Eric J. Holcomb announced 101 Indiana companies who were eligible for either the Century or Half Century Business Award. Bardach Awards, a local Indianapolis awards store, is pleased to announce they were one of the half-century honorees. The award represents the company?s longevity, service to employees, the local Indianapolis community and the entire state of Indiana.

?I?m honored to recognize these dedicated, Hoosier business leaders who have created a lasting impact, not only on their communities, but to the state as a whole,? says Gov. Holcomb. ?As we continue to attract new jobs and investment to Indiana, these well-established businesses will set the tone for a Hoosier economy dedicated to hard work, constant improvement and strong community roots. I?m confident these businesses will continue providing great service for the next 100 years and keep Indiana on the path to success for centuries to come."

Business owners who have remained in business for at least 100 or 50 years continuously and have exhibited a dedication to community service are eligible for the Governor's Century or Half Century Business Award, respectively. More than 1,160 Indiana companies have been recognized during the award?s 30-year history. Located in Marion County, Bardach Awards is the perfect candidate for the Half century Award, as they have been serving the local community for the last 52 years.
