Macon, GA based Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. is pleased to announce that they are providing quality legal representation for communities in Macon, GA and the surrounding areas.

When people get involved in accidents, they do not only have to worry about recovering from the injuries they received. They will also have to think about their growing medical bills as they receive treatment. This places them in a situation of financial stress where they are likely to seek immediate financial relief. Insurance companies are aware of this situation, according to the firm, and they want to take advantage of it. This is why they send insurance adjusters who are tasked with encouraging victims to settle quickly for less money than they are entitled to.

Some victims may find this hard to believe as insurance adjusters are usually courteous and friendly. However, they must remember that insurance adjusters do not actually have the injured party?s best interests in mind. Insurance adjusters work to make money for insurance companies, and as such they will do their best to undervalue the injured party?s claim. They may even make victims sign releases and waivers that make the injured party give up all their rights regarding the accident. This means that they will no longer be legally allowed to bring claims against the party at fault for their injury.

Victims of accidents should not try to deal with insurance companies on their own. Georgia personal injury law is incredibly complex and hard to navigate, especially for those who lack knowledge and experience in this field. Most do not know how much compensation they are actually entitled to receive. Insurance companies are aware of this as well, which is why they produce smaller settlement offers to people who do not have a lawyer. Kenneth S. Nugent seeks to help injury victims receive the full compensation that they are entitled to.

From the initial meeting with Investigator Derrick Hayes to ongoing interactions with Leigh and Amber in the Macon, GA office answering questions on paperwork completion and guiding me through the process, I could not have been in better hands. The Client Portal was very useful and the staff very responsive and empathetic handling someone who had never experienced such a traumatic event. I would highly recommend Ken Nugent and his Macon, GA staff. My case was satisfactorily settled with the responsible driver's insurance company. I would not have been able to go through the legal process without them.?
