Diamond District, New York City - Family law is typically centered around the times that test a couple and their family. Divorce, child custody, division of assets, spousal support, visitation, and child support; can be extremely charged issues that may impact everybody involved, both financially and emotionally. When feelings run high, it is typically challenging for couples to think clearly about the consequences of their actions and decisions during a divorce.

Juan Luciano, Esq. is a skilled divorce lawyer in Diamond District, New York City. He understands his responsibility as the emotional, financial, and legal representative for his clients. There is often a fine line in between being an emotional support system for his clients, keeping communication between couples as non-confrontational as possible, and yet knowing when to use the aggressive steps needed to help make sure that his client's rights and best results are being fully represented.

"Most of my time, I work with clients going through very difficult and vulnerable times. The lawyer explained that clients are expected to make sensitive decisions that will have a lasting impact on their lives and the children of their ex-spouses. Although I cannot remove their discomfort, I can help them make the necessary decisions. It is important to make the right decisions while respecting the client's dignity and psychological comfort. We try to maintain open communication with each other and cooperate, but sometimes this is not possible or efficient. In these cases, we must resort to more aggressive methods. While I try to follow the client's lead whenever possible, I must also be open with the client. As attorneys, we have to tread this fine line.

Luciano believes compassion and respect are powerful and attributes his success to his willingness and ability to treat clients with kindness. Although he prefers cooperative methods, he also recognizes that sometimes cooperation is not always the best option. This is why Mr. Luciano continues receiving positive testimonials from clients.

Whitney Bourque from New York states: I was searching for a good divorce lawyer and didn't know where to turn. I looked on the Internet and saw the site for Juan Luciano Divorce Lawyer. I read through it and read his evaluations and it seemed to me he was a really good guy and a fantastic attorney. After comparing him to the other lawyers, I chose to pick Juan to represent me through my divorce. I have been extremely happy with my decision. Everyone in his office is experienced and knowledgeable. When you leave a voice message or send an email, they get back to you right away. Juan understands very well the ongoings of the divorce system and is always upfront, and tells you what is going to happen next. I am totally satisfied with my divorce and I highly recommend Juan Luciano to anybody who needs a divorce attorney.

Juan Luciano is a skilled attorney who works hard to ensure that each client receives the best possible outcome. Divorce can often set the stage for the rest of a person's life. While it is possible to feel glum during divorce proceedings, Mr. Luciano knows that life continues after a divorce. The decisions made during chaos will impact the future of his law practice's clients. Luciano attempts to provide clarity of thought for clients who might not be able to.

A knowledgeable divorce lawyer can help each spouse reach a common understanding by helping them navigate difficult situations. The right representation can make all the difference in the way that partners work together and the tone they share during a divorce.
