

Emergency Fire Damage Contractors Now Available in Phoenix

July 26, 2021

Mesa, Arizona - July 26, 2021 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Dry Star Restoration, a company based in Mesa, AZ, is pleased to announce that they are one of the emergency fire damage contractors in Phoenix that residents can rely on. The damage resulting from a house fire can reach thousands of dollars and the loss of valuable and irreplaceable items in the home. They recommend that homeowners and other property owners consult with a professional fire damage restoration company, who have the appropriate equipment and tools, within 24 to 48 hours after the fire.

Richard Appel, owner of Dry Star Restoration, says, "The actions taken by the fire damage contractors in Phoenix are the key to stopping the spread of damage beyond the initial blaze and eliminating deterioration of the structure itself. In a house or other building fire, the fire cleanup should be initiated as quickly as possible. This expedited response will help to ensure the recovery of as much of the property as possible. The prevalent smell of smoke and ash is another fire result which will be necessary to neutralize and deodorize. These odors can affect every surface of the structure as well as its contents."

The home fire itself is not the cause of most of the damage. After the blaze has been put out, the homeowner will need to deal with the soot, water, smoke, chemical fire suppressants and odors from the charred timbers, drywall, wet ash, or furniture. Soot, especially when combined with water, is acidic, which can cause damage to furniture and other parts of the home. The fire suppression and fire retardant chemicals can also negatively affect furniture and other important belongings in the home.

Dry Star Restoration is also one of the water damage contractors in Phoenix. As such, their services are necessary after a flooding incident in the home to be able to bring things back to normal as quickly as possible. Just like with fire damage, a professional contractor with sufficient experience in this kind of rehabilitation work is required.

Water damage may not just be caused by a flood caused by rains or a storm. It can occur for several reasons. Toilets can crack and water pipes can break, and rivers can also overflow their banks during flooding incidents. The professionals from Dry Star Restoration will carefully examine the source of the water to ensure that they can apply the correct approach to remedy the situation.

Dry Star Restoration is a leader in the provision of water damage restoration services in Arizona since 2012. And aside from offering damage restoration services, they also provide remodeling contractors in Mesa and other cities in Arizona. But their focus is on water mitigation services. Those who have flood damage of any kind can depend on the services of the company's well-trained experts and certified water damage cleanup professionals to have their homes returned back to normal as soon as possible.

Aside from fire damage and water damage restoration services, they offer other related services. These include: mold remediation, asbestos abatement, storm repair, sewage cleanup, remodeling, and more. Mold remediation is essential because inhalation of mold indoors can result into health issues in some individuals. Molds produce spores that contain allergens, causing allergic reactions in a number of people. Some molds may even contain toxic substances, which are called mycotoxins. Molds, whether dead or alive, can affect some people by causing allergic reactions.

Meanwhile, homes that contain asbestos materials need asbestos abatement services. Asbestos was used in older homes because of its heat insulation and fire retardant properties. However, it was later discovered that microscopic asbestos fibers or dust, when inhaled, can affect the lungs and are suspected to be linked to lung diseases. This discovery resulted into several asbestos lawsuits with the first successful asbestos lawsuit won in 1973. Many US buildings erected before 1980 contain asbestos and it is important to have these removed from the home carefully, without disturbing the material that would result in the release of asbestos fibers into the air. For this, certified asbestos abatement professionals are needed.
