Brooklyn - Family law usually centers around the moments which test the marriage of couples and their families. Divorce, child custody, division of property, visitation, and spousal support are all very charged issues that can have a significant impact on everyone. Emotions can make it difficult for couples to see the consequences of their actions and decisions during a divorce.

Juan Luciano, Esq. is a Brooklyn-based divorce lawyer. He understands the role of being an advocate for his clients' financial, emotional, and legal rights. It is difficult to balance being an emotional support system to his clients and keeping communication between couples as normal as possible. However, he also understands when it is necessary to take aggressive steps to ensure that his clients' rights are protected and the best outcome for them.

"Most of my clients are going through a very difficult and vulnerable time. They will need to make difficult decisions that will affect them and their children for many years," explained the divorce lawyer. "While I cannot eliminate their discomfort, I can help them make important decisions. We must make these decisions while respecting the client's dignity and emotional comfort. We try to maintain open lines of communication and cooperation with each other, but there are times when this is not possible. In these cases, we must resort to more aggressive methods. While I try to follow the client's lead whenever possible, I also have to be open with the client. As lawyers, it is not an easy line to walk."

Luciano believes in the power and importance of compassion and respect. He attributes his success to his ability to treat clients with kindness. He knows that cooperation is not always the best approach. However, he does recognize when it is. His unique approach has earned Mr. Luciano positive testimonials from clients.

Price Kaci from Brooklyn, NY states: "Juan Luciano is a terrific attorney. He is very smart, a great listener, and understands how to walk that very fine line between being tough and compassionate. Naturally, he abide by all my wishes and I definitely felt certain he had my best interests at heart. I highly recommend his firm. Everyone I dealt with was very professional and kind, and the office is conveniently located."

Juan Luciano is a hard worker to ensure that each client receives the best possible outcome. Divorce can have a significant impact on a person's future. While it is possible to feel skepticism during divorce proceedings, Mr. Luciano knows that life continues after the separation. The decisions made in the middle will affect the future of his clients. In those times when family law clients are struggling to think clearly, Mr. Luciano attempts to provide clarity.

An experienced divorce attorney can help navigate the process. This will allow each side to find common ground. The right representation can make all the difference in how former partners work together and the tone they set during a divorce.

Mr. Luciano is available to serve individuals throughout New York City, including Manhattan, Bronx and Westchester. His practice can be found at <https://divorcelawfirmnyc.com/brooklyn-divorce-lawyer/>.
