Perth, Western Australia: Connolly Dental, a dental practice in Connolly, the City of Joondalup, WA, is informing patients they will make every effort to fit an emergency appointment. While they are tending to all dental emergencies as they happen, the dentists recommend regular dental check-ups. This will ensure their patients dental problems are detected early, before they get much worse and become a dental emergency

Dr Lily Taheri, one of the dentists at Connolly Dental, says, "At our dental practice, we prioritise emergency treatments and aim to see patients as quickly as possible to relieve their pain and improve their oral health."

There are a number of indications for a dental emergency, which means that the patient should not put off going to the dentist. The onset of extreme pain to your teeth/gums, without any physical injury occurring is typically a dental emergency. An emergency dentist can also treat knocked out teeth, displaced or cracked teeth, if a fixture is broken, bite the tongue or lip, object stuck in the teeth, or when the mouth or teeth are injured in a sporting accident. One should visit a hospital though if one's jaw is broken or one's lips, gums or tongue are severely severed or damaged. When in doubt on whether there is a need to see a dentist, people are advised to call the dental practice as soon as possible.

At Connolly Dental, booking an appointment with an emergency dentist can easily be done. The practice offers an online booking system, though in an emergency situation it is best to call the practice and speak to one of their receptionists. They will do everything possible to see the patient promptly. They don't want anyone to be suffering in pain so they'll prioritise the treatment of people who have a dental emergency.

Dr Taheri continues, "We listen to our patients and consider their concerns regarding the emergency. This gives us the info we need to do everything possible not just to relieve the pain but also to ensure that the dental treatment provided is as comfortable as possible for that patient."

There are a number of unpredictable factors in a dental emergency, which means the cost can vary. Fortunately, there are a number of payment options to help patients manage their cost of treatment.

First of all, they offer payment plans via connollydentalboutique.com.au through their partner ZipPay, one of the leading finance providers in Australia. Children aged between 2 to 17 years that receive Family Tax Benefits Part A or any relevant Australian Government payment, may be eligible for a range of dental services up to a maximum of $1,000 over two years. And lastly, they accept all kinds of health funds. Connolly Dental is a preferred provider for HCF, Medibank, HBF, and nib.

Dr Lily Taheri says, "A dental emergency can be a stressful time, but our experience and standard of care means you'll be in safe hands. We talk through all of the procedures and the costs, so patients fully understand the treatment that is needed and know that they can afford it."

The dental practice is open from 8:00 am, Monday to Saturday. Those who are looking for emergency dental treatments in Perth can call Connolly Dental on (08) 9300 1122 or via <https://sites.google.com/view/cosmeticdentistperth/emergency-dentist>
