Santa Rosa, California ? To help property owners understand the importance of property tree care, Tree Service Experts Santa Rosa held a Lunch ?n Learn event in which the attendees were educated on the timing for tree pruning and trimming. Inviting certified arborists to the event, the tree service company made clear the benefits that come with trimming or pruning trees when they are in their dormant stage.

?We have noticed that most of the homeowners with small, non-risky trees on their landscapes are taking advantage of DIY tree pruning and trimming,? said the company?s CEO. ?However, since most of the tree owners do not have tree service experience, they often make mistakes that tend to cost them the entire tree. One avoidable mistake that tree owners make is handling tree pruning and trimming when trees are growing actively.?

Tree Service Experts Santa Rosa is a company that has been handling tree care procedures for years. The company operates on both commercial and residential properties, improving trees with professional tree pruning and tree trimming. The company also handles tree removal in circumstances where the trees cannot be saved. The company boasts advanced tree maintenance gear and a team that is passionate about tree care. Handling all tree-related services at an affordable cost, the company reports that one of its major goals is to make sure that everyone residing in Santa Rosa can afford professional tree care. Speaking during the Lunch n? Learn event, one of the arborists had this to say, ?When you trim or prune a tree when it is actively growing, you may inflict significant injuries. Since the tree is still growing actively, the injuries may take time to heal and may even get infected. Eventually, the wounds may kill your tree.?

Tree Service Experts Santa Rosa noted that most trees stop growing actively in the fall, with the dormant stage lasting through winter. ?Most of the trees that grow in Santa Rosa snap out of the dormant stage at the beginning of the spring period,? said the arborist. ?For this reason, trimming the trees in the spring is generally not a good idea.?

The tree service company noted that the only time when a tree should be pruned outside the dormant stage is when the tree pruning procedure is needed to improve safety or restore the health of the tree.
