San Diego, California ? A company that focuses on making outdoor adventures safe and exciting, Globo Surf has decided to help campers find the best canvas tents for their next camping trip. After analyzing hundreds of tents, the company has come up with a list of 10 canvas tents that carry all the qualities a camper would need when spending his/her time in the backcountry.

Speaking after publishing the detailed review on canvas tents, Globo Surf?s CEO had the following to say, ?A tent is your home away from home. The best canvas tent will have you feeling both safe and comfortable when enjoying your time in the wilderness. To help serious campers get a tent that offers maximum value for their money, we have tested numerous canvas tents. Our detailed article carries tents that are remastered to excel in their design ? these tents are durable and strong and, at the same time, well-ventilated and very adaptable to the buyer?s style of camping.?

Founded with a mission to help families, friends, and even solo adventurers ensure they are carrying the best gear when heading outdoors, Globo Surf boasts a boatload of articles that speak on everything outdoors. Globo Surf reports that its team of content creators regularly spends time outdoors, something that forces the team to spend a good amount of time choosing new gear for its challenging adventures.

“Every piece of content that goes live on our responsive website is written by an expert who has analyzed different types of similar gear to choose one that has worked for his/her adventure before,” said Globo Surf’s content manager. “Rich Parkes, our Camping Expert, is a wild camper from England who spends most of his weekends in quiet parts of the mountains surrounding Snowdonia and the English Lake District. Rich Parkes has more than one Canvas Tents, each ideal for his different types of escapades he enjoys in the wild.”

Globo Surf reports that it allocates a time and money budget to its reviews to ensure that a team member has tested and verified the quality of each product recommended. “On Amazon, product sellers have to use carefully selected words to make a sale,” said the head of the product testing team. “This means that not all companies selling canvas tents on Amazon have been very forthcoming with the actual details of the product they have put on sale. This is one of the many reasons we had to test numerous canvas tents to come up with our list of just 10 best canvas tents.”

Globo Surf reports that its website covers more than just camping gear. The company also has valuable information on other outdoor activities like hiking, biking, fishing, skiing, climbing, beach activities, kayaking, and much more.
