Their services include: water damage repair, water removal, wood floor water damage services, storm damage cleanup, service for water heater burst, flood cleanup, disaster restoration, emergency water cleanup, drywall water damage, cabinet water damage repair, and sewage cleanup.

They want to emphasize that when it comes to water damage, there are a series of problems that homeowners and other property owners need to deal with. It is also unfortunate that flooding in the home or building can result into damaged belongings that may no longer be possible to recover and that mold growth will likely have started somewhere. Water damage can result into a lot of bad odors and smells, garbage, dangerous mold growth, and extensive cleanup that could occur when water restoration efforts are made.

As part of their water damage restoration services, they can provide water removal. The professionals at ABC Environmental Contracting Services will not just provide expert water removal but will also take care of the effects left by the flooding. They can help return the home or business back to its previous state before the storm or flood.

ABC Environmental Contracting Services provides flood damage restoration services in St Louis, where flooding is quite frequent. A flooding disaster is an emergency situation because the water and humidity can have a negative impact on the integrity of the structural elements of the home or building. It is not just the flooding that is dangerous but humidity inside the building can rise quickly and cause problems, including the growth of molds and bacteria. The flood damage restoration professionals will provide comprehensive services using the most up-to-date technology to control humidity levels and eliminate any remaining hidden moisture.

One of the parts of the home that are vulnerable to water damage are the wood floors. Water can saturate a hardwood floor that usually causes cupping because the bottom of each board expands more than the top part. This results in hardwood boards that are raised at the seams and the wood takes on a wavy appearance. The professionals will help with the drying of the wood and repair those that can be repaired and possibly provide some refinishing. Those that are damaged beyond repair are then replaced.

Meanwhile, they can also provide restoration services for a water heater burst. This shocking and messy event usually happens because of corrosion in the water tank, which leads to the tank bursting at its seams. This event is an emergency situation and usually requires the services of professional flood damage restoration experts.

ABC Environmental Contracting Services can also offer services for the cleanup of sewage-related disasters. This is a messy and unhealthy situation that has to be remedied as early as possible. They can offer sewage extraction, neutralization of foul odors, and sterilization as needed. Their certified restoration specialists will extract and get rid of all traces of the wastewater and provide remedies for those structural building materials that have not yet been damaged beyond repair.

The professionals from ABC Environmental Contracting Services have professional-grade equipment that have been specifically designed to extract and remove huge amounts of wastewater quickly and efficiently.

When in need of services for water damage restoration, people in St Louis Missouri can visit the ABC Environmental Contracting Services website, or contact them on the phone or through email.
