Trucleen Drycleaners in Booragoon, Perth, Western Australia, have announced the launch of their brand new website. They have revealed that the new site is mobile friendly, and combines their old school service with new age advertising. They pointed out that although they have been in business for many years, they have never taken the time to have a website designed before, particularly one that offers full compatibility to most phones and other mobile internet devices.

Stuart Smith, a spokesperson for Trucleen Drycleaners, states, "We are proud to be able to inform our customers of happenings within our business, offer them upcoming news and promotions, and to do it on our new website that has been designed to keep up with modern technology."

They have been in the same physical location for nearly 15 years, and are members of the Drycleaning Institute of Australia. They use the latest techniques for dry cleaning wedding dresses, leather, and various other materials, and state that customer service their number one focus, hence the design of their new site.

"Our site expresses our personal commitment to our customers," explains Stuart Smith. "We designed it to provide all of our relevant information, including what we clean and how we clean it."

In addition to dry cleaning, they also offer alterations and clothing repairs, another fact that is showcased on their new site. In addition to a list of services, they have also provided directions for their physical location, all of which are completely mobile friendly. "We want our customers to be able to find us, even when they are using their smartphones or other devices to do so," declares Smith.

Those interested can also find social media links on the newly designed website to Facebook, Twitter, and Pinterest, where the dry cleaner plans to offer tips and advice, as well as future promotions. The mobile friendly site enables consumers to fully connect with the company by way of computer, smartphone, or tablet.

Trucleen Drycleaners currently serve those who are in Booragoon, Myaree, Attadale, and Surrounds. Those who want to learn more can visit the new website at <http://trucleendrycleaners.com/>.
