

Social Video Spark The First Facebook Timeline Ranking Software

October 06, 2015

October 06, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Andrew Darius, the renown video marketer, has announced the launch of Social Video Spark the first ever Facebook Timeline video ranking software which bridges viral traffic from YouTube and Periscope to Facebook. Andrew stated, "The first ever Facebook SEO software Social Video Spark will be launching October 5, 2015 at 11am EST."

Andrew recently posted in the Facebook group dedicated to the education of those wondering what video Social Video Spark does exactly why the new video marketing software will be so important to video marketers.

"The predominance of video views online are on Facebook because Facebook is the only way to autoplay videos in a timeline on mobile. This auto play functionality makes viewing videos easy for mobile users so they use it a lot. You will instantly have 65% more video views. You can also have 1-click 'call me' on mobile. The FB native video player is also the only way to autoplay video in timeline on mobile."

Andrew went on to say, "Without this software, which does everything for you, you would have to do the following for every video: find viral YouTube video with CC BY license, download that video to your computer from YouTube using some software, fire up your video editor and make new project, import your intro/outro & main content videos to your video editor, import watermark image to your video editor and place it in the right spot and duration on top of your content video, wait for video editor to render your final video, upload that video manually to facebook to 1 page, wait for Facebook to render video, and then manually share to each and every fanpage and group that you have (and you want to have at least tens of those). It could easily take hours of your time to do exactly the same which could take you 3 minutes with Social Video Spark."
