New York - Family law often focuses on the situations that can challenge spouses and their children. Custody, property division, visitation, and child support are all issues that can cause emotional and financial distress for everyone involved. It is difficult for couples to consider the consequences of their actions and decisions in a divorce when emotions are involved.

Juan Luciano, Esq. is a New York-based divorce lawyer who understands his role as his clients' financial, emotional and legal representative. It is often difficult to find the right balance between being an emotional support system and keeping communication between couples in a non-confrontational manner. However, he knows when to take the necessary aggressive steps to ensure that his clients' rights are protected and get the best outcome.

"Most of my time, I work with clients who are going through very difficult and vulnerable times," Luciano said. The divorce lawyer explained that clients must make difficult decisions during this time. These choices will have a lasting impact on their lives and the future of their children. "Although I cannot alleviate the client's pain, I can help them make the right decisions. All of our discussions must take into account the client's mental comfort and dignity. We try to maintain open communication with each other and cooperate, but there will be times when it is impossible or not productive. In these cases, we need to resort to more aggressive strategies. While I try to follow the client's lead whenever possible, I also need to be open with them. As attorneys, it is not an easy line to walk."

Luciano believes that compassion and respect are powerful and attributes his success to his willingness and ability to treat family law clients with compassion. Although he prefers cooperative approaches, he knows that sometimes cooperation is not possible. This is why Mr. Luciano continues receiving positive testimonials and reviews from his clients.

Stokes Jeffery from New York states, "Juan Luciano is the best divorce attorney in the city. Quite nice and kind, knowledgeable, encouraging, but in the courtroom, he is a fighter. He assisted me to get child custody and was always atop every issue. When working with him you always receive personal attention, he knew every small detail of my divorce and was there to assist and guide me. Juan Luciano is a terrific Bronx divorce attorney. Not to mention a great guy!"

Juan Luciano is a skilled attorney who uses his legal knowledge and years of experience to ensure the best possible outcome for every client. Divorce can often set the stage for a person's future. While a person may feel angry and grieving during divorce proceedings, Mr. Luciano understands that life continues after the separation. The decisions made in the middle will affect the future of his law office's clients. Luciano tries to bring clarity to family law clients who might struggle to think clearly.

An experienced divorce attorney can help each spouse reach common ground by negotiating difficult situations. The right representation can help to improve the cooperation and tone between ex-partners during the divorce process.
