The company also services the neighboring counties, such as New Hanover County NC and Horry County SC.

A fire can be a devastating event for any home or business. After the fire trucks leave, even though the fire is out, the property will often continue to suffer from fire and smoke damage but also fairly significant water damage and flooding as a result of the firefighting effort. The team at Bryter Restoration of Wilmington specializes in fire and water damage restoration and has the skill and experience to clean up and restore the property to its original condition. The damage restoration service is capable of removing the strong, lingering smell of smoke and will deep clean soot from upholstery and carpeting. They accomplish this via specialized equipment and cleaning techniques.

The company places great emphasis on restoration as opposed to replacement, and this helps the team focus on restoring the property while ensuring that there is minimal interruption to the customer?s life as well. The company offers these restoration services to their community in Wilmington as well as Brunswick County, Pender County, Onslow County, Carteret County and so on.

Bryter Restoration of Wilmington acknowledges how disastrous a fire can be. The resulting fire and water damage can leave a person?s house with significant safety issues which render it unsuitable for living in. The team is trained to clean and restore property as efficiently as possible, and they always begin their work by executing a thorough inspection in order to assess the severity of the fire or water damage prior to taking any action. In certain cases, the company will take additional precautions, such as boarding up windows and doors or adding a tarp to the roof to prevent further damage. Water removal and drying is a likely service that will be needed due to firefighting efforts. The team will then focus on the removal of smoke and soot before beginning the deep clean and reparation of the property. The finishing touch will be the restoration of the property to its original state.

Bryter Restoration also offers water damage restoration services to residents in their region. In North Carolina, one of the common causes for water damage is actually storm and weather damage. Water damage as a result of a storm is due to water not being able to drain properly. The company advises their community to keep the gutters clean for this reason. Ideally, gutters should be cleaned twice a year (or more if there are many trees near the home). Clear gutters will allow the rainwater to drain off the roof properly. Flooding and stagnant water in yards may be due to landscape and grading issues. This issue must be cleared quickly, because a lawn that is submerged in water for a few days will invariably be ruined.

In the event that water damage does occur, homeowners and other property owners can call on Bryter Restoration of Wilmington for fast water damage restoration. The team of professionals are capable of repairing water damage caused by flooding or other circumstances. They have been providing water damage restoration services for over 15 years and even offer 24/7 emergency services. To make the process even more efficient for their customers, the company partners with major insurance companies as well. They begin the water damage restoration by getting rid of all standing water from interior structural parts of the home, such as floors, walls and ceilings. They will also determine the cause of water damage in order to provide the necessary repairs. The complete range of services offered by the company?s damage response team includes water extraction, water dry-out, mold remediation and sewage cleanup. The team can also help homeowners and property owners to address other types of damage, such as slab leaks, broken pipes and sump pump failures.
