There are various potential water disaster incidents that can cause damage to a home or commercial building. Some of these incidents are: severe weather, clogged gutters, leaking pipes, washing machine water supply line leak, condensation from AC, blocked drains, malfunctioning sprinkler systems, and leaking water heater. Water damage is categorized depending on the cause of the damage, including the possible contaminants that may be present.

There are three categories of water damage: clean water, grey water, and black water. Clean water is the least dangerous and as long as it is properly handled and mitigated, there are no significant risks for people and their pets. Grey water contains physical, chemical, and biological contaminants that can make people and their pets sick or irritated. Black water contains hazardous germs and pollutants that can make people and pets sick and irritated.

Flood Professionals as an emergency restoration company performs a number of steps for water damage restoration. These are the: repair of any broken or leaky pipes; water extraction; removal and disposal; complete dry out; sanitization and deodorization; and reconstruction and repair.

They can also provide fast and dependable fire damage restoration services for both residential and commercial customers in and around the Doral area. They have licensed specialists in fire damage restoration who have the tools and resources to restore a property to its condition before the fire. Major fire damage always results in structural damage, which puts the home or building at risk of collapse. They also have the professional skills to help repair and restore the home to its original state before the storm. Storm damage can be inflicted on the building due to various factors such as: fallen trees/limbs; windows broken through debris; and damaged roofing and siding through strong winds. Homeowners and other property owners who have experienced storm damage can call on the professionals at Flood Professionals and they will begin the process of inspecting the damage and determining the tasks that they would need to be done to bring back the house or commercial buildings back to normal.

They provide several emergency storm damage restoration services, including: window board up; debris removal; roof tarping; and emergency demolition. Debris removal involves getting rid of large debris that are stuck on a building or blocking a driveway or access route. Window board up is to protect the property from thieves. Roof tarping prevents further entry of water into the home or building. Emergency demolition is needed to bring down certain parts of the building to avoid further harm.
