Oakland, California based Road Runner Weed Delivery is reaching out to the community to talk about the history of the cannabis industry, and how it shaped their properties. In particular, the company hopes this will help their community understand what the future holds for the industry as well as their business.

"There was a time not too long ago when cannabis was not the multi-billion dollar industry that it is today," explains Quintin Glover, a company representative. He continues, "People would turn up their noses at cannabis, and the medicinal properties of the product were ignored and hidden from the masses. It was a tough time to be an investor in the industry."

Notably it was these circumstances that originally birthed the "Road Runner" concept and its application in the fledgling cannabis industry. Road Runners were the people who fought against prejudices and cultivated businesses full of entrepreneurial risk. They were individuals trusted with the task of getting cannabis to its destination, putting themselves at the mercy of the legal system.

Since the birth of this unique occupation, and up until 2010, there was a 188% increase in the number of people arrested for cannabis offenses and a 52% increase in the number of people in state prisons for drug offenses. Glover explains, "While cannabis has since been legalized, and most prejudices against its use have been abandoned, we believe that it is important to remember the sacrifice and difficulties that those who came before us had to fight against. Our company was created in the spirit of the ones that came before. We show the world we take risks and can prosper in any environment."

Road Runner Weed Delivery focuses on producing quality cannabis products while giving back to the communities that gave birth to and supported the industry. The company's mission is to inspire, teach and guide other like-minded individuals. Glover says, "One of the things that differentiate us from other companies is the commitment we put into delivering a personalized experience. We have invested a significant amount of time searching, testing and building a menu to reflect the taste of our community. We listen to our customers and choose our products accordingly. This ultimately allows us to fulfill our main priorities, such as facilitating an excellent customer experience and making the transaction as accessible as possible."

Since the early legalization of cannabis, Road Runner Weed Delivery has been active in conducting and exploring as many cannabis-related fields as possible. With these findings, they continue to learn and then educate, teaching all Road Runners to take risks and prosper in any environment. Their core principle is integrity, and the company explains that they believe that honesty is the best policy.

As a premium cannabis delivery company, Road Runner Weed Delivery provides a wide variety of cannabis products, including flowers, pre-rolls, vape pens and edibles. These are complemented by a highly knowledgeable staff that is available to answer and offer guidance to any new customer looking to learn more about cannabis.

Glover adds, "Our location in Northern California gives us access to some of the best cannabis cultivators in the world. We only select the best products for our customers. Before putting a product on the menu, we ask whether we would use this product ourselves. All of our products are tested for safety and efficacy. We make sure the products we carry do not have things like artificial colors in edibles and harmful chemicals in vape cartridges."

To sign-up, become verified, and then order from Road Runner, customers need to be over 21 years of age. They also need a valid US ID or passport, a working phone number that can receive calls and texts and cash with exact change. For those who live in an area that currently only allows medical cannabis sales, a valid ID and California medical marijuana recommendation will be requested.
