Widdlytinks is an online retailer that specializes in making art prints that are distinctive and unique. The fact that many of their signs can be personalized only adds further to those traits. It's something that also makes their customizable canvas art prints suitable for gift giving as wedding, housewarming, and other family-oriented gifts. Many of these art prints have even become cherished family keepsakes because of the way that they are personalized.

Amy Anderson, the company spokesperson, says, "Many customers that visit our website are surprised to learn just how many personalized family name signs that we have to choose from. Personalized wall prints are offered in all of our collections and there is a lot of diversity among them too. Some of the types of personalization that we offer on our prints include the family name, last name, and year established. It's something that is very unique when it comes to canvas wall prints. We continue to add personalized wall print offerings to our various collections regularly. Examples of them can always be seen in the high-resolution photos that we put on our website of each canvas art piece."

The company spokesperson went on to provide some examples of their many different wall art prints that can be personalized. This includes art prints from their Rustic Farmhouse-Style Collection. A good example from this collection is their black Farm & Ranch Cattle Sign that can be personalized with both a family name and year established. Other popular collections of Widdlytinks that have many offerings that can be made more personal include their Vintage and Modern Industrial collections. In these collections are customizable signs such as their Vintage Modern Ice Hockey Club Family Sign which again can be personalized with a family name and year established and their Modern Industrial Personalized Kitchen Cafe Sign that can have the family name added to it. Some wall art prints in their Spring & Easter, Autumn & Fall, Halloween, Christmas, Valentine's Day, and Christian-themed collections can also be personalized.

Anderson said that their unique and distinctive wall art prints have nice features that go beyond their ability to be personalized too. This includes them being available in a large variety of sizes; including both large and small formats. They also have a nice 1.5" frame depth and can be hung up as soon as they arrive because of their pre-installed sawtooth hangers. All of their frames also have strategically placed dried pine stretcher bars to ensure the frame won't warp or bow over time. She says that best of all, their art prints are placed on thick, archival grade, poly-cotton blend canvas that is pH-neutral and acid-free. This is something that gives all of their art prints the ability to stay looking great for many years to come.

The company spokesperson added that their personalized canvas wall art is something that can provide a versatile decorating option that can make a huge impact on any blank wall. It was also emphasized by her that all of the print designs at Widdlytinks have been created with the utmost care and attention to detail by the well-trained eye of their award-winning artist. An artist with over 20 years of experience in these types of personalized wall print designs. Their personalization also makes them more than suitable for both home and business environments. She stated they at Widdlytinks are proud to offer pieces of custom wall art that personalizes a space and can create a focal point of interest that will beautifully finish off any room. Their distinctive farmhouse decor and other unique canvas wall art are only offered directly to the public via their website.
